PREFACE.

In January 1869 a Compilation of the Finance and Revenue Accounts of British India from 1861-62 to 1866-67 was issued as Part I of a collection of financial statistics. It consisted of a General Series of Accounts, giving the figures for India collectively, and of a Local Series of details for each separate Presidency and Province. The intermediate tables, through which the totals for India had been ascertained by bringing together the figures for each Presidency and Province, under each major head, minor head, and item of minor head, were omitted on account of their bulk, but the omission has been found to impair the use of the General Series. Accordingly, Part I of the former issue has now been divided into two parts, of which the Ist contains the General Series and the tables above mentioned, brought down to the end of 1868-69, while the IInd Part is confined to the Local Series, or the separate accounts for the several Presidencies and Provinces. A collection of Miscellaneous Financial Statistics, which is in course of immediate publication, will form Part III.
